

Onward to a rocking future

Matric girls from Holy Rosary School received an introduction to various colleges and universities last week.

The Standard Bank Rocking Future Roadshow visited the school on Thursday last week to show the learners the wide variety of study options open to them after their school careers.

The one hour motivational and informative educational exhibition related positive messages about career opportunities to young learners.

Now in its ninth year, the Standard Bank Rocking Future Roadshow has reached over 168 000 matric learners through more than 1 248 shows in eight regions.

Currently, over 30 of the top tertiary education institutes in South Africa participate in the roadshow.

Hosted by the vibrant Pascal Lwanbwa and Jared Munien, the show is a fun-filled way for learners to get in touch with tertiary education.

"We noticed that 50 percent of students were dropping out of their studies within the first year at a tertiary institute because they had made the wrong choices. The roadshow tries to encourage learners to do what they love doing," Pascal said.

Holy Rosary School matric learners, Tamsyn Groesser, Jennifer Couperthwaite and Amy Wen with Standard Bank Rocking Future Roadshow host, Pascal Lwambwa.

