

BROTHERS IN ARMS: The HIP2B² Road Show is travelling to each major city in South Africa with the aim of encouraging more than 65 000 high school pupils to persevere with the study of maths and science. The road show made its way to Gardens Commercial School in Cape Town recently, where Three Ring Circus, a theatrical youth marketing group, performed a lively multimedia presentation, taking pupils on a time-travelling journey through the last 150 years. The presentation elaborated on various innovations and discoveries using a combination of animation, montages, video and live actors. The road show aims to show pupils how their technology-driven world is directly credited to innovators that sought to push known boundaries. Seen here, from left: Gardens Commercial High School students Dalyn, Damsley and Navarone Jacobs from Lentegeur.
