

Show motivates career choices

Queensburgh High School pupils, Jamie Sullivan, Lee Blaine, Jaydrian Pillay and Sanele Nxasana capture the fun atmosphere of the Standard Bank Rocking Future Roadshow with sound engineer, Vaughn Venton and presenters, Jared Munien and Pascal Lwambwa.

QUEENSBURG school pupils got to capture the fun atmosphere of the Standard Bank Rocking Future Roadshow last week.

Queensburgh High School, Rosssburgh High School and Werda School were all visited.

The Roadshow is a motivational and informative educational exhibition that fills matrices with positivity. It also alerts this year's matrics to the enormous amount of career opportunities available in the marketplace.

In the last nine years, the Roadshow has reached more than 168 000 matriculants through more than 1248 shows. Currently the show has 30 of the country's top tertiary institutions on board as well as the support of hundreds of participating high schools.

The success of the show can also be attributed to its hosts, Pascal Lwambwa and Jared Munien. Their youthful presence captures and captivates the audience of youngsters with the aid of music, giveaways and great visuals that assist in getting the message across in a concise yet fun format.
